"Child's Play"

Opens at Outsiders and Others September 24, 2005

Picasso once remarked, "I used to draw like Raphael, but it has taken me a whole lifetime to learn to draw like a child." Artwork is a critical part of every child's development. Before a toddler can write, or even speak effectively, she can hold a crayon and make her mark. Because they don't have to play by the rules and conventions that confine grown-up art, children are free to explore through art and show their world just as they see it. "This artwork is not as easy as the term child's play would make it sound," said Yuri Arajs, Executive Director, "viewers will find these pieces compelling."

This exhibit is Outsiders and Others first show of work by artists under the age of 10. Not just houses on hilltops, these works are powerful examples of naïve art, exploring themes that are at once playful and telling looks at the topics that concern children. Attached are two images by Sophie Cannon, age 6, and Isaac Obolensky Dell, age 4.

Opening Reception Sat., Sept. 24, from 7 to 10 p.m. — Outsiders and Others, 1010 Park Ave. So., Mpls.

These events are free and open to the public.

ABOUT OUTSIDERS AND OTHERS: Outsiders and Others gallery provides a rare opportunity for people to see self-taught and non-traditional artwork. Outsiders and Others is the only “outsider” gallery open to all of Minnesota’s outsider artists. “Our focus is to seek out Minnesota’s self-taught artists and give them the opportunity to show their work,” says Yuri Arajs, Executive Director. Crop art (made from seeds), paintings on discarded windows, and found object collages are just a few examples of the types of works exhibited at the gallery. While Outsiders and Others emphasizes artists who have never before shown their work; emerging and established artists are also on exhibit. In addition to hosting 10 - 14 exhibits a year, Outsiders and Others supports artists by making art available for sale in the Outsider Store as well as providing one-to-one mentoring for artists with disabilities.
